Every child would love to have an animal friend like this

Booor-ing! The little hippo is desperate for a playmate. The other animals come up with all kinds of brilliant suggestions, but climbing, hide and seek, and running races don't appeal. What does a baby hippo really want to do?

- Eye-catching on the book-stands
- Attractively embossed
- Popular animals make this a must-have book

p. 3-4

The little hippo's playing alone.
We can't just leave him on his own.

p. 5-6

The monkey calls: "Hey, come to me!"
But how can a hippo climb a tree?

p. 7-8

"You hide. I'll seek. One, two, three..."
Too big to hide behind a tree!

p. 9-10

The cheetah says: A race would be fun."
But hippos just aren't built to run.

p. 11-12

The elephant dance is a graceful thing,
But hippos don't have a trunk to swing.

p. 13-14

"Come and splash with us!" Yippee!
The hippo's happy as can be!
