Every child would love to have an animal friend like this.

Blubb, blubb, blubb... The little whale takes a big breath and dives below the water. At some point, he's going to have to breathe out again. But how? The other underwater animals show him how they do it. But there's only one solution for the little whale.

- Eye-catching on the book-stands
- Attractively embossed
- Popular animals make this a must-have book.

p. 3-4

Look how the little whale inhales,
Then dives down deep. That's good for whales.

p. 5-6

But suddenly he's filled with doubt:
What's breathed in must be breathed out.

p. 7-8

The shark says: "It's easy for everyone!"
But with no gills it can't be done!

p. 9-10

"Come and blow bubbles." It's fun to play,
But it doesn't move the air away.

p. 11-12

The herring says: "Poop it from under your tail."
But pooping the air doesn't work for a whale.

p. 13-14

Ah, this is the way to get the air out.
You blow through your blowhole, and it's out in a spout!
